Video Guesting N

By SHIRLEY EDER

HOLLYWOOD — While Red Skelton was taping a Dinah Shore show, CBS came to the studio to try and persuade him to do some other guest spots on its network shows. Red said no. And he told a friend in the studio, "If I do anything, I'll come back and do a special." The crews who used to work the Skelton shows, the CBS executives and the stars of other programs all came to watch Red do his thing on Dinah's show. He was so good that they just kept applauding him. Everyone was thrilled to be seeing Skelton at work again. It's been too long between shows. . . . Lucie Arnaz has taken an apartment in New York but plans to keep her little house in Hollywood. She commutes to New York so often to do game shows that she feels she needs her own place there, too. I know that several Broadway producers have scripts for Lucie to read. Michael Bennett, who directed her in "Seesaw," is also looking for a musical property in which to star Lucie. Like the song says, "When You're Hot You're Hot." And she is!

WHEN ETHEL MERMAN WALKED on stage at the start of her concert at the Chandler Pavilion in Los Angeles, a packed house rose to its feet and applauded her mere entrance for more than five minutes. Then, during the concert itself, Ethel received five or six more standing ovations. At the end of the evening with Ethel, who was in fantastic voice, the audience cheered. "There's no people like show people," if they happen to be Ethel Merman! . . . Keith Carradine, the youngest of the acting Carradines, is planning to star in Arthur Miller's new play, "Up From Paradise." In it he'll play the role of Caine. If everything goes well the show will open in Los Angeles after the first of the year and then head to Broadway. . . . The secret money man behind an upcoming star-studded film about a huge financial swindle was himself the center of a huge swindle. . . . Jon Voight, whose new movie, "The Odessa File," was filmed in Germany, was asked if making movies in Europe was different from making them in Hollywood. "It's practically the same," he replied, "except there you have to give 10 percent to your interpreter as well as your agent."

JIM NABORS IS GETTING very close to doing a variety talk show from Hawaii. He's mad for Hawaii (who isn't?) and recently purchased a condominium in the Kahala Hilton apartment complex. That's where Jack Lord lives in a lavish pad. The plan, for now at least, is for Jim to tape a pilot show right after the first of the year. . . . Mark Spitz is in Rome to talk with some people about the packaging of still another Spitz product. They won't tell what it is. From Rome, Mark and his wife will go to Spain for a couple of weeks. He will not be in the States to view his dramatic acting debut on the "Emergency" episode. . . . Producer Michael Medwin pulls a Hitchcock in the movie "Law and Disorder." He's seen as caddy Carroll O'Connor's snooty English passenger . . .
