NOTES

DECK 13
More Deflector Equipment is located at the front of this deck. Some of this equipment continues down to Deck 14 and is accessed by ladder.

Behind this is the bottom of the Fresh Water tank, a continuation from the decks above. The Pumps, Filters, and Pressure Testing Equipment is just aft of the Water tank.

Most of this deck contains Cargo Holds.

At the rear are the Phasers, and immediately ahead of them is the Cargo Transporter Equipment.

DECK 14
The majority of the Cargo Holds are on this deck. The Cargo Transporter is at the extreme rear.

Ahead of the Cargo Transporter is the Tractor Beam Equipment and 2 of the 3 Tractor Beam Controllers. They direct the Emitter so that the beam can locate and lock onto the object being towed.

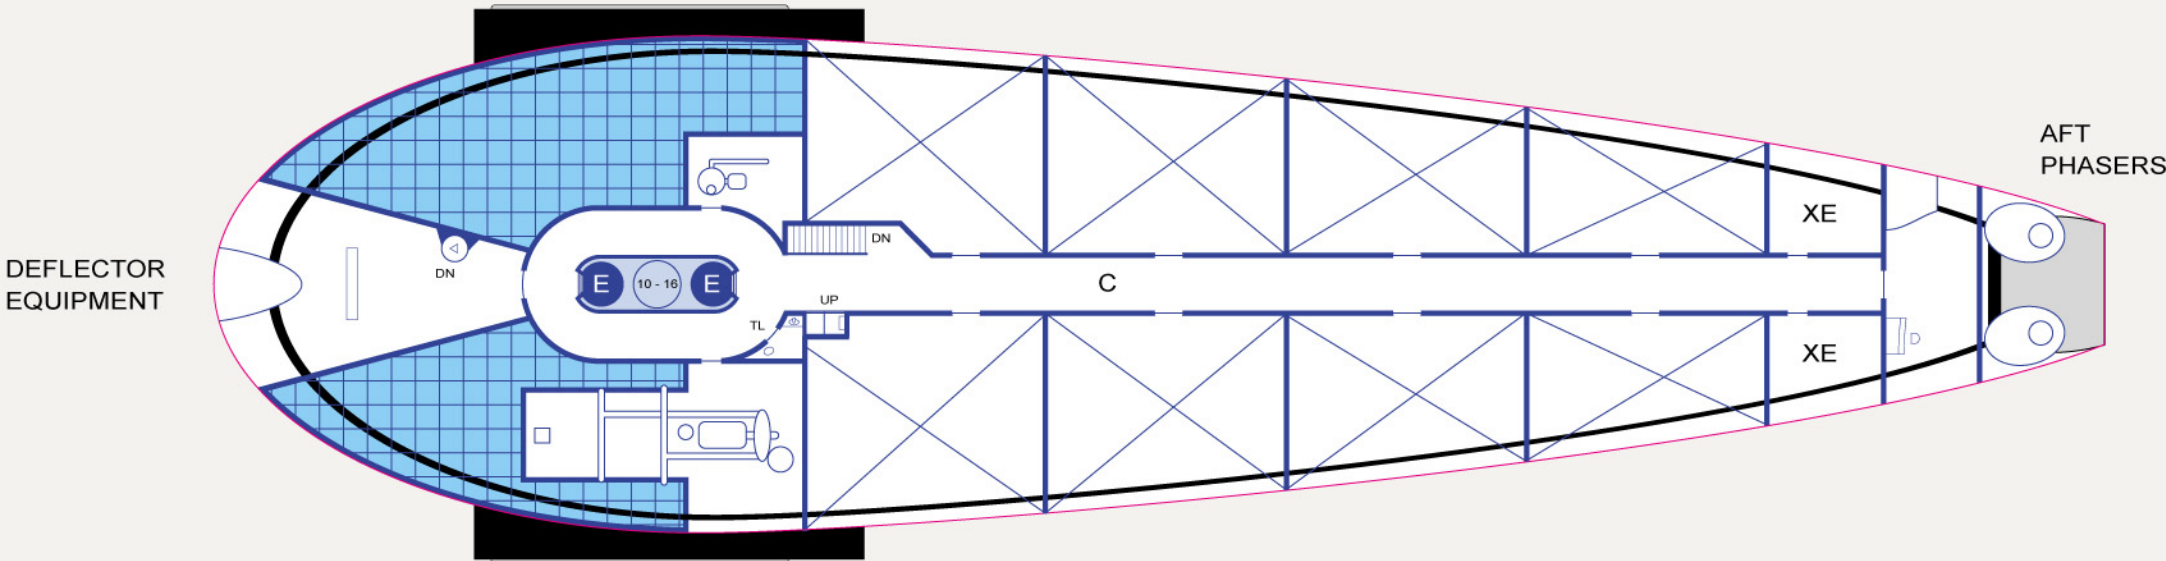

The 1 pale gold-coloured recessed rings on the underside of the Secondary Hull absorbs and re-directs any back-scatter created by the Tractor Beam.

FROM THE EPISODE "Bread and Circuses" (continued)

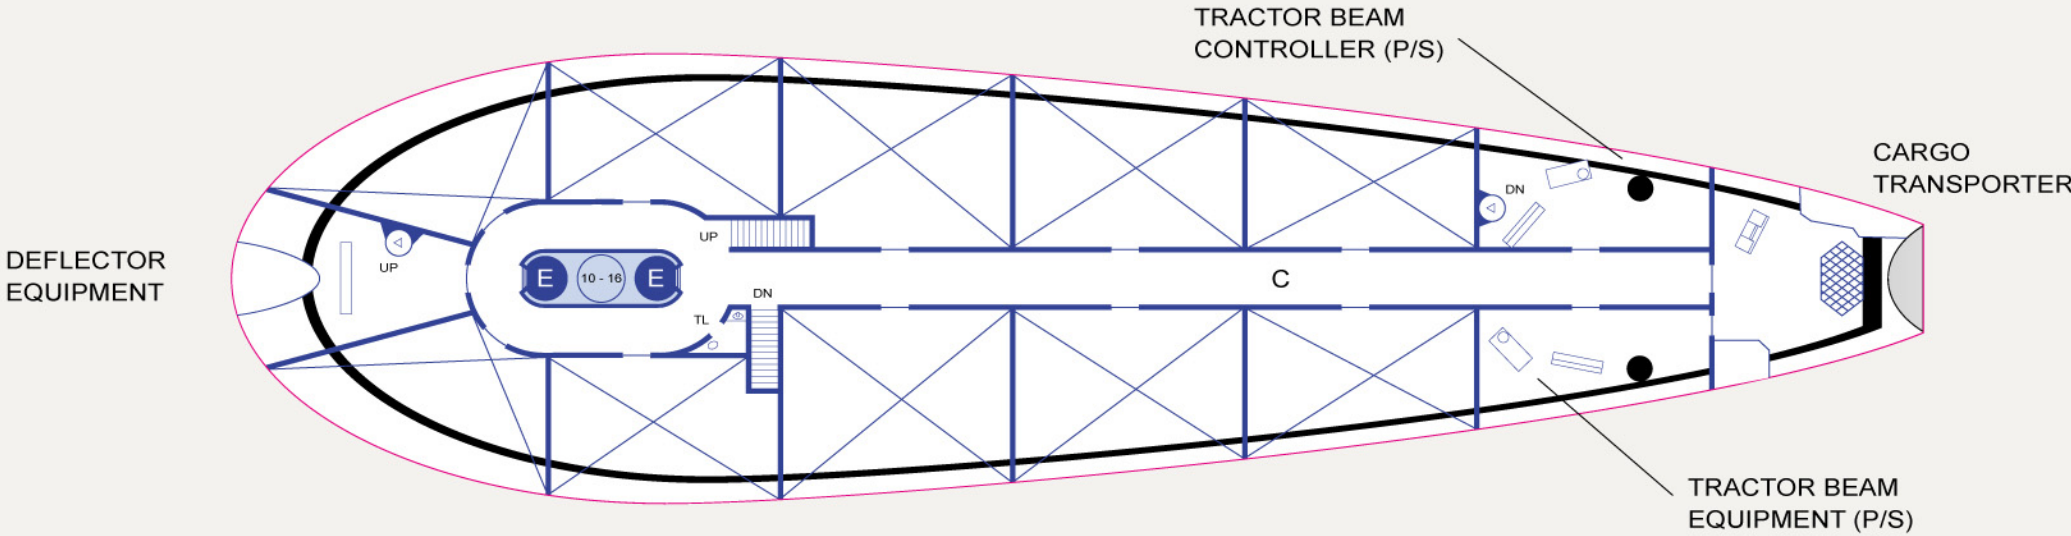

KIRK: Standard orbit around the planet. There may be survivors there.
SPOCK: S.S. Beagle. Small class four stardrive vessel. Crew of forty seven, commanded by . . . Jim, I believe you knew him. Captain R. M. Merik.
KIRK: Yes, at the academy. He was dropped in his fifth year. He went into the merchant service.

- LATER -

VOICE: In the second heat, a slightly more professional display in the spirit of our splendid past, when Gladiator Claudius Marcus killed the last of the barbarians, William B. Harrison, in an excellent example of - (The picture of an old Roman fight with net and short sword is lost.)
UHURA: Transmission lost, sir. Shall I try to get it back?
KIRK: Slaves and gladiators. What are we seeing, a twentieth-century Rome?
SPOCK: Captain, the one described as the barbarian is also listed here. Flight officer William B. Harrison of the S.S. Beagle. At least there were some survivors down there.
