* These are views of a nacelle with the Control Reactor on the starboard side. In some views, certain items are shown with only a pink outline or removed completely so as to more clearly display other items in the background.

Other orientations would be similar, mostly involving a rotation of the Plasma Cyclers, Chilling Panels and the Antimatter Ejection Panel.

Of course, adjustments have to be made for the attachment point to the ship, the Jefferies Tube, the Power Conduits, and the Inspection Station.
