By Murray Walker

Entertainment Editor

D o you go to the play or the movie to see the same thing? That's the question Marvin's Room director Allen Maclnnis wants his audience to consider.

Theatre Preview

Marvin's Room

Fridays to 10 p.m. at The Exchange

In 1982, Marvin's Room was filmed as a comedy about a dysfunctional family of two sisters, one of whom is dying of breast cancer.

The film was made in 1982 and starred Burt Reynolds and Shelley Duvall. It was directed by Edward Zwick.

In the play, the two sisters are played by leading Hollywood actresses - Bette Midler as Sharon, and Meryl Streep as Lee. The play for PTE before he observed a movie version in 2004.

Positive spinoffs

When he learned recently that the movie and play would be showing in Winnipeg on the same weekend, Maclnnis says he was concerned.

"I was afraid some of our potential customers would go to the movie and not the play," he says.

But then he realized that the coincidence had some positive spinoffs.

"Suddenly, we have a play with some recognition," Maclnnis says.

"That's something that doesn't always happen at PTE.

Written by U.S. actor Scott MacFarren, who died of AIDS in 1990, the play was directed by Edward Zwick.

Marvin's Room is billed as a comedy about a dysfunctional family of two sisters, one of whom is dying of breast cancer.

The film was made in 1982 and starred Burt Reynolds and Shelley Duvall. It was directed by Edward Zwick.

In the play, the two sisters are played by leading Hollywood actresses - Bette Midler as Sharon, and Meryl Streep as Lee. The play for PTE before he observed a movie version in 2004.

Positive spinoffs

When he learned recently that the movie and play would be showing in Winnipeg on the same weekend, Maclnnis says he was concerned.

"I was afraid some of our potential customers would go to the movie and not the play," he says.

But then he realized that the coincidence had some positive spinoffs.

"Suddenly, we have a play with some recognition," Maclnnis says.

"That's something that doesn't always happen at PTE.

Written by U.S. actor Scott MacFarren, who died of AIDS in 1990, the play was directed by Edward Zwick.

Marvin's Room is billed as a comedy about a dysfunctional family of two sisters, one of whom is dying of breast cancer.

The film was made in 1982 and starred Burt Reynolds and Shelley Duvall. It was directed by Edward Zwick.

In the play, the two sisters are played by leading Hollywood actresses - Bette Midler as Sharon, and Meryl Streep as Lee. The play for PTE before he observed a movie version in 2004.